INT. PAVILLION CAMP . WEEHAWKEN-- IGHT-

1994. A summer camp in- Northern Michigan. It's a dance. An over-enthusiastic counselor with a massive boombox stereo. Coolio's "Fantastic Voyage" blasts.

About ten thirteen-year-old boys are lined up along the

'Hair down to their ears and parted in the middle-- little

versions of Kurt Cobain or Jord Catalano.

They are staring at a group of dancing girls - In the middle is KATIE, the blonde who grew boobs before anyone else. And every time she moves; she bounces.

The boys watch her, serious, concentrating. They need to remember this for later. Katie continues to bounce- One boy suddenly looks down, scared.

BOY

It tickles.

OTHER BOY-

Yeah. It does other stuff.

But there's a boy on the, edge of the group: A sweet. face,

'and

you wouldn't be surprised to- find but he's Jewish: A 12 old, Adam Kurtzman. He's the only boy not looking at Katie. Instead, he's staring off in another direction.

On the other side of the dance floor, next to an 'enormously fat kid, there's Emma. She's an awkward 12. Wearing borrowed clothes— a skirt that's a little too long, a top that she can't fill out. She's taller than any of the boys. But there's something in her eyes, like she's laughing at everything.

She makes eye, contact with Adam: She squints., He takes -a breath,. She squints some more. He walks over.-'.

ADAM

Hey. -

EMMA

Hey.

A 'long' pause'. -They're not looking at each other. Then

ADAM

You're funny. It's weird.
